

ICYMI Some Really Smart People Reached Out to Mars

Copyright Pat Griffin, March 21, 2021

The Mars lander Perseverance along with its drone Ingenuity is now sending back incredible images from Mars some 145 million miles away. I'm pretty sure the scientists and engineers that designed and built these systems valued hard work, objectivity, progress, rational thought, respect for authority, delayed gratification, etc. I'm also pretty sure there are plenty of non-white people in this group that exhibit these characteristics of successful people. So while we are arguing about how many sexes there are, and by the way Tennessee Williams said there are at least six, and whiteness, this group of successful people, probably composed of every race on the planet, has done something to truly move humanity forward.